Parent Invitation Letter (Sample) IMPORTANT: Remove this note before copying!

Adapt this letter as an invitation note to Christian parents who might want to work through the Your New Life with Jesus booklet with their own children.

Dear Christian parent,

We are thrilled to report that your child has indicated a serious interest in following Jesus as Savior.

We wanted you to know that we have a booklet called Your New Life with Jesus available for your child.

We are planning to work through the lessons in a small group with your child. However, we thought you might want the opportunity to work through this booklet on your own with your child as he or she grows to understand this new life with Jesus.

Would you like to receive this booklet to read and talk through it together? Please let us know.

We know how very important your encouragement and love will be to your child as he or she begins this new life with Christ.

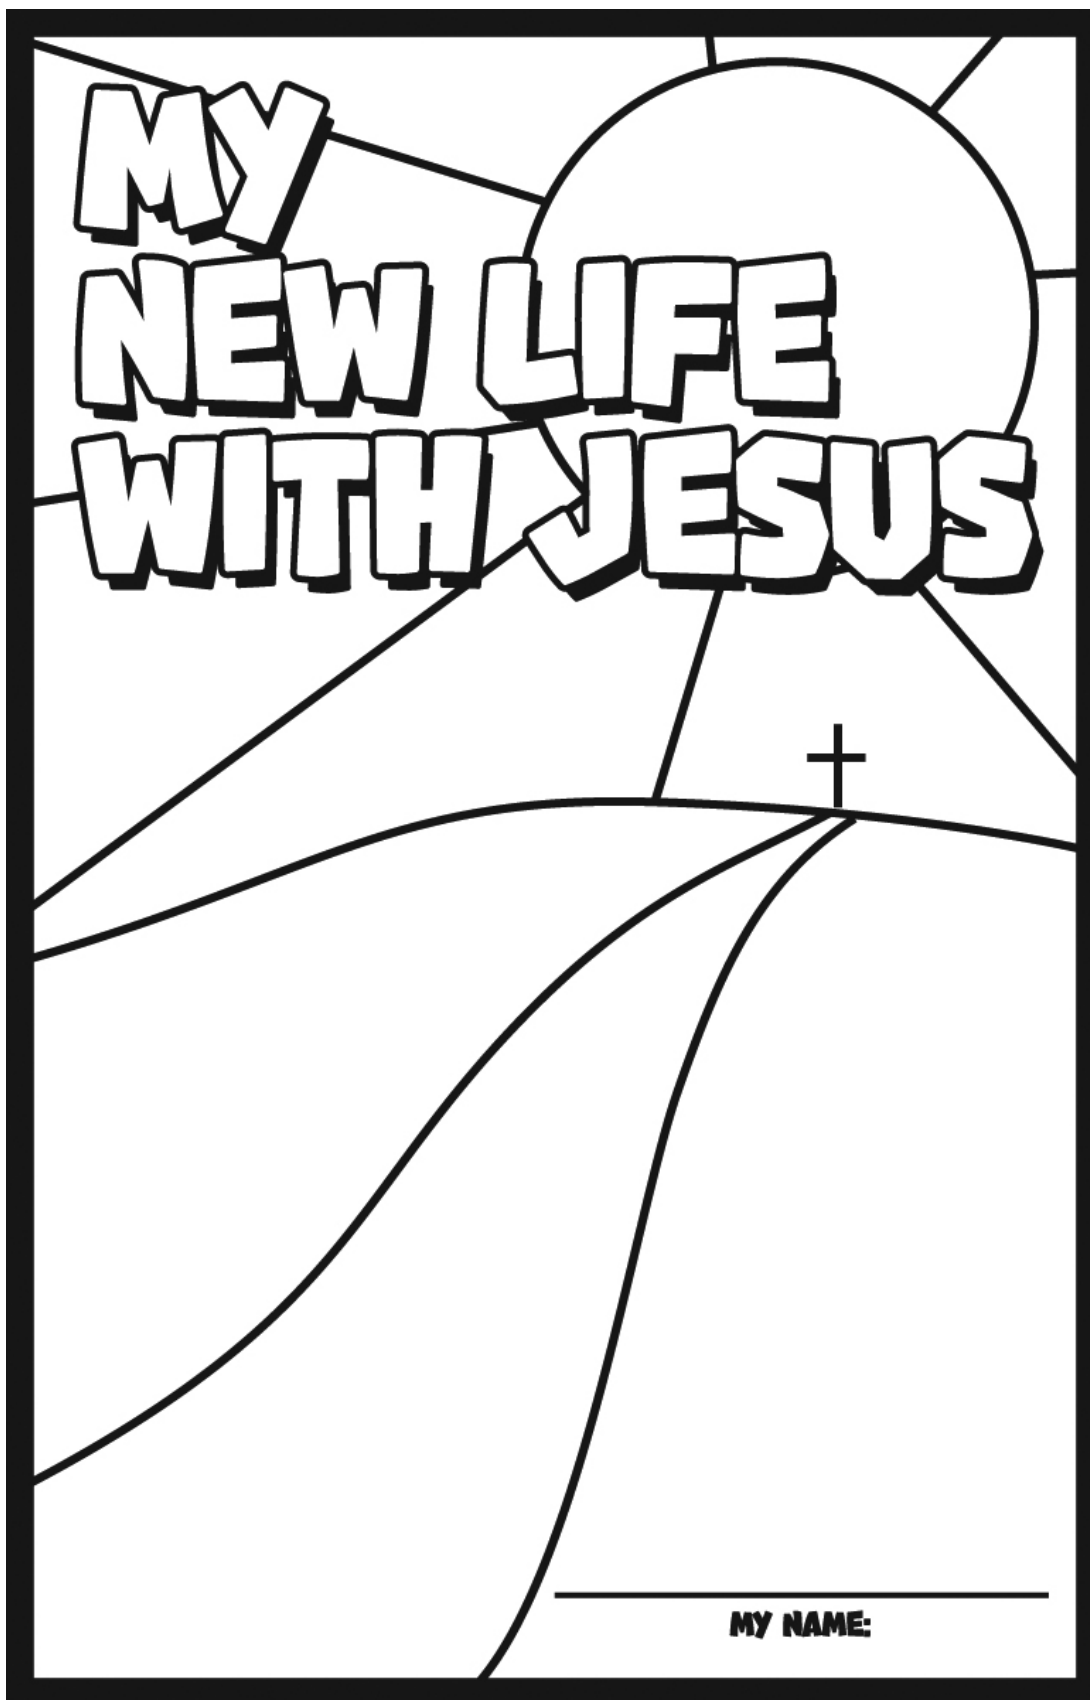

Let us know if you have any questions. We are praying for your child to grow a strong and lasting love for Jesus.

In Christ,

(your name)

Journal Cover IMPORTANT: Remove this note before copying!

Make a photocopy for each student to use as a cover for their own personal prayer notebook or journal. Invite children to color and decorate these as they wish.

Mailbox Series (Instructions)

If you expect that you will not see students again after an outreach event where children have responded to the gospel, you might consider a correspondence course.

You will need:

- Access to copies of each lesson
- Mail and postage supplies
- An address for each child
- Someone to read and respond to the correspondence

The child will need:

- To be able to read and write (or have someone who can read to him or her)
- Ability to mail a letter (and follow mailing instructions)

General Instructions:

1. Ensure permission (and commitment) from the child that he or she wants to participate. Be sure to check whether it will be appropriate for his or her family situation (unbelievers, other home challenges, etc.).
2. Send the first lesson home with a child after he or she makes an initial commitment. Include a self-addressed stamped envelope for them to use to mail the lesson back to you when finished.
3. As you receive lessons, read them, pray for the child, make comments, add your own notes of encouragement, etc. Be positive and warm. Answer the child's questions, too.
4. Send one lesson at a time. Attach the cover letter to each. Fill in the blank to match the lesson number. Include their previous lesson with notes of encouragement and comments on your prayers for them.
5. Offer a certificate of completion (or other small gift) for those who finish.

NOTE: This could be done via e-mail, but students would need to print out the lesson and return it to you. These children would need access to a computer, e-mail, a printer, and a way to return it to you (either mail or in-person), etc.
